Village Hotel Bugis:

A Different Way to “Live Like a Local”

Situated at the crossroads of culture, the Village Hotel Bugis is the best hotel for you to spend your holiday or business trip while enjoying Singapore at its best.

YANA GHOPAR

Only minutes away from Singapore's Arab, Peranakan, and Indian heritage districts, Village Hotel Bugis is the perfect place to experience “Live Like a Local”, their tagline and selling point.

Visit the Sultan Mosque and Malay Heritage Centre in the historic Kampong Glam precinct when you are in the mood for shopping. This area is ready to pamper your shopping spirit or offer a memorable culinary experience. You can go from shopping for knick-knacks in the two-story conservation shop houses in Bugis Village, to picking up fabrics or buying accessories to add a touch of unique style to your appearance, before a refreshing teh tarik in Little India and Middle East dishes in an Islamic restaurant near to the Sultan Mosque for your dinner. You can also visit Singapore's oldest Hindu temple, and maybe even test your shopping endurance at the 24-hour Mustafa Centre.

With the tagline of “Live like a local”, the village hotel group have tried to offer guests a memorable journey in which to enjoy cultural heritage while experiencing local excitements. Offering 393 rooms, including Superior Room, Deluxe room, Club Room & Suite Room, in several Superior types a kids bed is available with cartoon figure wallpaper. Two restaurants are available at the Village Hotel Bugis where you can find iconic Chinese cuisine at Mooi China, while The Land Mark Restaurant offers an International menu. For meeting and special event occasions, this hotel offers four rooms, and to make your stay more comfortable the Village Hotel also provides a free cellular phone for your communication needs in Singapore. Not only that, you can also get a Village Passport, it's a Village hotel guidance booklet that allows you to check information about activities, food, and cultural events around the Village Hotel, making it easy to create your own itinerary. With so many things to see, do, taste, and shop for in the area, every stay at Village Hotel Bugis is guaranteed to be a different way to live like a local. ●
